Festival volunteers praised for efforts

MAKING miracles happen is how many volunteers and supporters see their role with the annual Noosa alive! festival and on Thursday they were thanked for their hard work and dedication.

This year was the largest festival in the 16-year history of the event and thousands of hours of effort were put in behind the scenes to bring the newly-named 10-day festival to life.

Noosa alive! festival director Ian Mackellar thanked loyal supporters, many of whom volunteer their time year after year, and business sponsors, including Bendigo Bank. "An enormous amount of logistics goes into the planning of this event," he said.

"The program this year was very well received ... we had some great artists.

"We're still collating statistics but what I can share with you is that it was the largest 10-day event we have presented in the 16-year history.

"We certainly have broken all box office records in our history which is clearly a reflection of everybody's contribution."

Next year Noosa alive! will run from July 20-29.

Deadline extended for grants

THE deadline has been extended for Wide Bay community groups to seek funding from Round 3 of the Stronger Communities Program, Wide Bay MP Llew O'Brien said.

Organisations including councils and incorporated not-for-profit community service and sporting groups now have until Friday, August 11 to submit project proposals for grants of between $2500 and $20,000.

Previous recipients in the Noosa area have included the new Cooroy Noosa Genealogical & Historical Research Group's building, renovation of Tewantin's Tait-Duke Cottage, and Noosa Dolphins Rugby Club for new lighting.

Other recipients include Noosa Men's Shed for a new studio, and Noosa Community Radio for broadcasting equipment.

Up to $150,000 is available to support small capital projects in Wide Bay, and eligible projects must be supported by matching cash or in-kind contributions from other sources.

Mr O'Brien said the SCP deadline had been extended due to its popularity, as it was a great opportunity for organisations to seek funding to improve their facilities and strengthen their local communities.

Organisations should consult the SCP guidelines and the frequently asked questions (business.gov.au/assistance/stronger-communities-programme) to determine eligibility.

SCP project proposals should be submitted to Mr O'Brien's office by Friday, August 11.
